

CONTENTS

Introduction		9— 14
Chapter I.	Thackeray's Qualifications as a Literary Critic	15— 41
Chapter II.	The Main Sources of Thackeray's Aesthetic Creed	42— 99
	1. The Social Function of Literature and Art	43— 50
	2. Beauty in Exterior Nature	50— 56
	3. Beauty in Art	57— 67
	4. Artistic Imitation	68— 85
	5. The General Position of Thackeray's Aesthetic Creed	86— 99
Chapter III.	Thackeray's Conception of Criticism	100—126
	1. Thackeray's Views on the Social Position and Function of Criticism	100—109
	2. Other Main Tenets of Thackeray's Critical Creed	109—126
Chapter IV.	Thackeray as a Critic of Fiction	127—312
	1. Thackeray as a Critic of Sir Walter Scott	130—138
	2. Thackeray's Criticism of the Historical Romance after Scott and Other Fashionable Literary Modes	138—260
	I. The Historical Novel and Romance	139—148
	II. i. The French and English Romance of Crime	148—150
	ii. Thackeray's Criticism of the Newgate Novelists	150—178
	III. The Silver-Fork School	178—208
	IV. The Novel of Adventure	208—222
	V. The Didactic Novel	222—247
	VI. "Christmas" Literature	247—260
	3. Thackeray as a Critic of Realistic Fiction	261—306
	I. The French and English Realistic Novel of His Own Time	262—276
	II. The English Realistic Fiction of the 18th Century	276—306
Chapter V.	Thackeray as a Reader and Critic of Poetry	313—341
Chapter VI.	Thackeray's Dramatic and Theatrical Criticism	342—369
Chapter VII.	Thackeray as a Critic of Non-Fiction Books	370—413
	1. Historical Works	370—381
	2. Biographies, Autobiographies and Literary Critical Works	381—392
	3. Political Works	392—397
	4. Travel-Books	397—406
	5. Books with a Variety of Subject-Matter	406—413
Conclusions		414—424
Index		425—447

